FANTASTIC ENTERTAINMENT
ENTERPRISES, LLC,

Plaintiff(s),

v.

PINK PERSONALITY, LLC, et al.,

Defendant(s).

Case No. 2:15-CV-2166 JCM (GWF)

ORDER

Presently before the court is defendants Pink Personality, LLC and Pink Personality, Inc.'s motion to transfer venue to the Southern District of New York under 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). (ECF No. 15). Fantastic Entertainment Enterprises, LLC filed a response in opposition (ECF No. 17), and the defendants filed a reply. (ECF No. 18).

I. Background

Plaintiff Fantastic Entertainment Enterprises, LLC is a Nevada limited liability company with authorization to conduct business in Clark County, Nevada. (ECF No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶ 1). Defendant Pink Personality, LLC is a Delaware limited liabilities company and defendant Pink Personality, Inc. is a Delaware corporation. (Id. at Ex. A, ¶¶ 2, 3). Both defendants' principal place of business is in California. (ECF No. 15 at 3).

Plaintiff alleges that on March 21, 2015, defendants entered into an appearance agreement with Jam House Live, LLC ("Jam House"). (ECF No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶ 7). Under the agreement, plaintiff and Jam House were to produce jointly an event at Chateau Night Club where defendants agreed that Onika Maraj, otherwise known as Nicki Minaj, would make an appearance. (Id. at Ex. A, ¶ 8). Plaintiff paid defendants $236,000.00 in exchange for their services. (Id. at Ex. A, ¶ 12).

1 The appearance agreement contained a choice-of-law and forum-selection clause that 2 requires the parties to litigate any disputes that arise under the contract in New York and under the 3 laws of New York. (ECF No. 15 at Ex. A, ¶ 15).

4 On May 2, 2015, Ms. Minaj was supposed to arrive at the night club at midnight, remain 5 for at least one hour, and perform two songs. (EFC No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶ 11(b-d)). Plaintiff alleges that 6 defendants breached the agreement because Ms. Minaj arrived at 1:19 a.m., remained for 7 approximately thirty-four minutes, and did not perform two songs. (Id. at Ex. A, ¶ 13(a-c)).

8 After the event, Jam House transferred all of its right, title, and interest from the agreement 9 to plaintiff. (ECF No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶ 8). On October 6, 2015, Plaintiff commenced this action in the 10 Eighth Judicial District Court of Clark County. (ECF No. 1 at ¶ 1). On November 13, 2015, 11 defendants filed for removal to this court under 28. U.S.C. § 1332. (ECF No. 1).

12 II. Legal Standard

13 The Supreme Court has held that “the appropriate way to enforce a forum-selection clause 14 pointing to a state or foreign forum is through the doctrine of forum non conveniens.” Atl. Marine 15 Constr. Co. v. United States Dist. Court, 134 S.Ct. 568, 580 (2013) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a)).
 16 Ordinarily, a § 1404(a) analysis requires evaluating both the convenience of the parties and public 17 interests. Id. at 581. However, the traditional analysis changes when courts review a § 1404(a) 18 motion that is based on a forum-selection clause. Id. “When the parties have agreed to a valid 19 forum-selection clause, a district court should ordinarily transfer the case to the forum specified in 20 that clause.” Id. “Only under extraordinary circumstances unrelated to the convenience of the 21 parties should a § 1404(a) motion be denied.” Id.

22 First, “the plaintiff’s choice of forum merits no weight.” Id. “Rather, as the party defying 23 the forum-selection clause, the plaintiff bears the burden of establishing that transfer to the forum 24 for which the parties bargained is unwarranted.” Id. This wide departure from the typical rule of 25 “plaintiff’s venue privilege” reflects that the plaintiff has already effectively exercised that 26 privilege by agreeing to the forum-selection clause before a dispute ever arose. See id. at 582.

27 Second, a court “should not consider arguments about the parties’ private interests.” Id. By 28 agreeing to a forum-selection clause, the parties “waive the right to challenge the preselected forum

1 as inconvenient or less convenient for themselves or their witnesses, or for their pursuit of the 2 litigation.” Id.

3 And third, “when a party bound by a forum selection clause flouts its contractual obligation 4 and files suit in a different forum, a § 1404(a) transfer of venue will not carry with it the original 5 venue's choice-of-law rules.” Id. This is a notable exception to the usual choice-of-law rules that 6 apply when a case is transferred pursuant to § 1404(a). See Klaxon Co. v. Stentor Elec. Mfg. Co., 7 313 U.S. 487, 494–96 (1941).

8 Courts should be hesitant to “unnecessarily disrupt the parties' settled expectations” by 9 failing to transfer a case when a valid, unambiguous forum-selection clause so requires. See 10 Atlantic Marine, 134 S.Ct. at 583. Thus, “[i]n all but the most unusual cases . . . ‘the interest of 11 justice’ is served by holding parties to their bargain.” Id.

12 III. Discussion

13 Plaintiff argues that the court should not grant defendants’ motion to transfer venue because 14 the public interest against enforcement of the forum-selection clause meets the “extraordinary 15 circumstance” threshold. (ECF No. 17 at 7-9). Plaintiff also argues that the District of Nevada, 16 rather than Southern District of New York, has proper venue because defendants do not reside in 17 and events did not substantially occur in the Southern District of New York. (ECF No. 17 at 9-10).
18 However, defendants argue that the forum-selection clause in the appearance agreement creates 19 proper venue in the Southern District of New York. (ECF No. 15 at 5-11).

20 In determining the validity of the forum-selection clause, the court must resolve three 21 issues: (1) which laws govern the validity of the forum-selection clause; See E. & J. Gallo Winery 22 v. Andina Licores S.A., 446 F.3d 984, 994 (9th Cir. 2006); (2), whether, under the applicable law, 23 the forum-selection clause is valid, See id.; and (3), if the forum-selection clause is valid then the 24 court must determine if public interest would defeat the validity of the forum-selection clause. See 25 Atlantic Marine, 134 S.Ct. at 582 (explains the "extraordinary circumstance" threshold).

26 . . .

1 a. Choice of Law

2 Under Ninth Circuit authority, when a contract contains a choice-of-law provision, the 3 provision's specified law governs the validity of the forum-selection clause. E. & J. Gallo Winery, 4 446 F.3d at 994. The present contract includes both a forum-selection clause and a choice-of-law 5 provision. (ECF No. 15 at Ex. A, ¶ 15). The forum-selection clause submits jurisdiction to the 6 "courts located in New York County" and the choice-of-law provision selects the laws of the State 7 of New York. Id. Therefore, the laws of the State of New York and the Second Circuit govern the 8 validity of the forum-selection clause. In its response, plaintiff does not acknowledge that New 9 York law applies to the forum-selection clause and does not raise any defenses against the Second 10 Circuit test.

11 b. Second Circuit Forum Selection Clause Test

12 The Second Circuit applies a four element test in determining whether to enforce a forum-13 selection clause. Martinez v. Bloomberg LP, 740 F.3d 211, 217 (2d Cir. 2014). The first three 14 elements evaluate: "(1) whether the clause was reasonably communicated to the party resisting 15 enforcement; (2) whether the clause is mandatory or permissive . . . and (3) whether the claims 16 and parties involved in the suit are subject to the forum selection clause." Id. (citing Phillips v.
17 Audio Active Ltd., 494 F.3d 378, 383 (2d Cir. 2007)).

18 A forum-selection clause becomes presumptively enforceable if the clause has been 19 reasonably communicated to the resisting party, is mandatory, and covers the parties and claims 20 in the dispute. Id. (citing Phillips, 494 F.3d at 383). If the court finds that the clause is 21 presumptively enforceable, then the fourth element of the analysis applies. Id. (citing Phillips, 494 22 F.3d at 383-84). The fourth element shifts the burden to the non-moving party, creating a 23 opportunity to defeat enforcement by "(4) making a sufficiently strong showing that enforcement 24 would be unreasonable or unjust, or that the clause was invalid for such reasons as fraud or 25 overreaching." Id. (citing Phillips, 494 F.3d at 383-84).

26 (1) Reasonably Communicated to the Resisting Party

27 A forum-selection clause is reasonably communicated to the resisting party if it is phrased 28 in clear and unambiguous language. See Effron v. Line Cruises, 67 F.3d 7, 9 (2d Cir. 1995). Here,

1 the forum-selection clause was reasonably communicated because the provision clearly and 2 unambiguously states that “[t]he parties agree to submit to the jurisdiction of the Federal and State
 3 courts located in New York County in any action which may arise from this Agreement.” (ECF 4 No. 15 at Ex. A, 8). The forum-selection clause is also easily identifiable because it appears in

6 (2) Mandatory or Permissive

7 There are two types of forum-selection clauses: mandatory and permissive. A mandatory 8 forum-selection clause confers exclusive jurisdiction to a forum, where plaintiff must submit all 9 claims to the jurisdiction that the clause selects. Phillips v. Audio Active Ltd., 494 F.3d 378, 386 10 (2d Cir. 2007) (citing Roby v. Corp. of Lloyd’s, 996 F.2d 1353, 1363 (2d Cir. 1993)). Alternatively, 11 a permissive forum-selection clause confers jurisdiction to a particular forum, but does not deny 12 plaintiff jurisdiction in an otherwise appropriate forum. Id. Here, the forum-selection clause is 13 mandatory; it allows parties to submit a claim only to the courts of New York County and 14 specifically includes the phrase “exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes.” (ECF No. 15 at Ex. A, ¶ 15 15).

16 (3) Parties and Claims

17 The forum-selection clause must cover the relevant parties and claims in order to satisfy 18 the last requirement for the presumptively enforceable threshold. Phillips, 494 F.3d at 383.
 19 Plaintiff is not an original signatory to the contract. However, if the plaintiff is a successor of the 20 signatory, then it cannot escape enforcement of a forum-selection clause. Agua Lenders Recovery
 21 Grp. v. Suez, S.A., 585 F.3d 696, 701 (2d Cir. 2009). Plaintiff qualifies as a non-signatory successor 22 in interest. The original signatory, Jam House, transferred all rights, titles, and interests to the 23 plaintiff, which includes obligations under this contract. (ECF No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶ 8). Therefore, the 24 plaintiff is a party that the forum-selection clause covers.

25 Furthermore, the forum-selection clause covers “all disputes between the parties pertaining 26 to this Agreement and all matters related thereto.” Id. The plaintiff’s claims are for breach of 27 contract, breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, and unjust enrichment. (ECF 28 No. 1 at Ex. A, ¶¶ 21- 41). These claims arise directly from and are “related to” obligations and

1 duties that the appearance agreement creates. Therefore, the forum-selection clause covers the 2 plaintiff's claims.

3 (4) Defeating Presumptive Enforceability

4 The forum-selection clause is presumptively enforceable because it was reasonably 5 communicated, is mandatory, and covers the relevant claims and parties. Nevertheless, the plaintiff 6 can defeat this presumption by showing that "enforcement would be unreasonable or unjust, or 7 that the clause was invalid for such reasons as fraud or overreaching." Phillips, 494 F.3d at 384.
8 The non-moving party can meet the standard set in the fourth element by making showing that 9 "(1) it's incorporation was the result of fraud or overreaching; (2) the law to be applied in the 10 selected forum is fundamentally unfair; (3) enforcement contravenes a strong public policy of the 11 forum state; or (4) trial in the selected forum will be so difficult and inconvenient that the plaintiff 12 effectively will be deprived of his day in court." Phillips, 494 F.3d at 392 (citing Roby, 996 F.2d 13 at 1363).

14 The record does not indicate that the clause was the result of fraud or overreaching, or that 15 a venue transfer to the Southern District of New York would deprive plaintiff of the opportunity 16 to litigate its claims. Plaintiff does not suggest that there is any public policy that contradicts 17 enforcement, nor does the court find that the laws in the Second Circuit are fundamentally unfair.
18 Accordingly, plaintiff has failed to rebut presumptive enforceability, making the forum-selection 19 clause in the appearance agreement valid.

20 c. Public Interest

21 Courts may deny a § 1404(a) motion to transfer based on an otherwise valid forum-22 selection clause when public interests factors create an "extraordinary circumstance." Atlantic 23 Marine, 134 S.Ct. at 581-82. However, "[i]n all but the most unusual cases . . . the 'interests of 24 justice' is served by holding parties to their bargain." Id. at 583. Public interest factors may include 25 considerations such as "the administrative difficulties flowing from court congestion[,], the local 26 interest in having localized controversies decided at home[, and] the interest in having the trial of 27 a diversity case in a forum that is at home with the law." Id. at 581 n.6 (quoting Piper Aircraft Co.
28 v. Reyno, 454 U.S. 235, 241 n.6 (1981)).

1 Plaintiff raises three public interest factors in favor of denying defendants' motion to 2 transfer. First, the caseload in Nevada courts is not substantially more burdensome than the 3 caseload in New York courts. (ECF No. 17 at 7-8). Second, the controversy that gives rise to this 4 case is substantially localized and Nevada courts have an interest in settling a local dispute. (Id. at 5 8). Third, Nevada law applies, giving preference to adjudication in Nevada courts. (Id. at 9).

6 Plaintiff's public interest considerations do not rise to the level of "extraordinary 7 circumstance." The public factors that the plaintiff raises includes a number of problems. First, the 8 amount of time it takes to litigate in Nevada courts is not substantially different from the amount 9 of time it takes to litigate in New York courts. In fact, litigation in Nevada courts take roughly six 10 months longer than in New York courts. (ECF No. 15 at Ex. C). The minimal weight that this 11 factor carries cuts against plaintiff and in favor of enforcement. Second, the public's interest in the 12 enforcement of provisions of contracts far outweighs any local interest to adjudicate cases that 13 substantially arises from local disputes. In addition, a local interest to adjudicate a case is not 14 enough to satisfy the "exceptional circumstance" threshold. See Monastiero v. appMobi, Inc., No.
 15 C 13-05711 SI, 2014 WL 1991564, at *4 (N.D. Cal. May 15, 2014) (finding that a local interest 16 to adjudicate cases weighs in favor of non-enforcement but is not enough to prevent enforcement).
 17 Third, plaintiff has failed to demonstrate that Nevada law will apply to the issues in this case.

18 Overall, the laws of the Second Circuit govern the forum-selection clause, and under those 19 laws, the forum-selection clause is valid. Furthermore, the public interest factors do not override 20 the validity of the forum-selection clause because they do not meet the "extraordinary 21 circumstance" threshold. Therefore, the court will grant defendants' motion to transfer venue.

22 IV. Conclusion

23 Accordingly,

24 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that defendants' motion to 25 transfer venue to the Southern District of New York, (ECF No. 15), be, and the same hereby is,
